Cookies, Tracking Pixels, and Interest-Based Advertising

We use cookies, pixels and similar technologies to personalize your website experience, to better understand our customers' preferences, and to more effectively target our marketing efforts.

A Cookie is a small data file stored by your Web browser on your computer's hard drive. Cookies allow The Vermont Country Store website to keep track of your order information, such as items placed in your Shopping Bag. Cookies also allow us to provide customers with a more personalized experience.

Tracking Pixels are small images that are used by the website to identify pages that are being viewed by customers. No personal data is collected when these images are viewed. Aggregate data from Tracking Pixels is used to improve the customer experience. We work with third-party advertising platforms to place advertising, which may be through display, email, direct mail or other methods. These third party platforms use technologies like cookies and tracking pixels to serve ads for The Vermont Country Store, or for other advertisers based on past visits to our Site and other sites, or on other information about you; to report on the placement of those ads; and to analyze website visits and advertising performance. This type of advertising, in which browsing behavior over time and across sites is analyzed to serve more timely and relevant advertising, is known as interest-based advertising. When we work with third party advertising and analytics platforms, we or they may place cookies (or similar technologies) that have been associated with de-identified demographic or other data linked to or derived from data you have voluntarily submitted to us and that we may share with a service provider to trigger or suppress an ad. Using these and other identifiers, service providers we work with may target, measure, or analyze advertising to you delivered through a variety of channels, including internet display advertising, email marketing and direct mail marketing.

We work with third-party advertising service providers to provide cross-channel and cross-device marketing, in which Information that we or they collect through one device or method of marketing may be associated with other information to allow us to market to you through another device or channel. For instance, if you visit our website or make a purchase, we may use information such as your email or IP address to send offers to you on a mobile device we think you are using, or to send you a direct mail catalog.

Your Choices

Interest-based advertising. To learn more about interest-based advertising, and to opt-out of seeing such advertising, you may visit the consumer opt-out links of the Network Advertising Initiative and the Digital Advertising Alliance, at the following links;

<http://www.aboutads.info/choices> or <http://networkadvertising.org/choices>.

Opting-out of interest-based advertising through the above links does not mean you will not see advertising, it only means that the ads you see will not be personalized based on your browsing activities, based on a cookie that the NAI or DAA will place on your browser. Because the NAI or DAA opt-out relies on cookies, blocking or deleting cookies may interfere with the effectiveness of an opt-out request.

Mobile Advertising Choices. We may sometimes serve interest-based ads through mobile apps. Each operating system (e.g. iOS and Android) provides its own instructions on how to prevent the delivery of interest-based ads. To learn more about this, please visit the privacy settings for the applicable device or operating system.
